Concentration of nickel and other metals of potential economic importance in deep sea nodules

Note: the area of the squares is proportional to the grams per tonne value for each mineral. For comparison purposes, the area of the entire page represents proportionally one tonne.

Source: modified from Hein and Koschinsky 2013